A word from our President

We are absolutely delighted that you are interested in sponsoring the PVRI 2025 Rio Congress – our 17th annual global congress since 2007. The theme of PVRI 2025 Rio is Embracing Heterogeneity, and it is on course to be an influential gathering of leading and early career researchers, clinicians, and industry experts dedicated to addressing the complexities of pulmonary hypertension (PH) worldwide.

Over the course of the event, we will delve into the heterogeneity in the presentation and in the pathology of PH, and explore how we can learn from heterogeneity to improve outcomes in PH across the world. Sessions will be focused on establishing the framework for the classification and diagnosis of PH worldwide, risk stratification and treatment in the new era of PH therapeutics, vascular heterogeneity in chronic lung disease, heterogeneity in PH associated with heart disease, the individual exposome and its contribution to PH heterogeneity, quantifying therapeutic responses, and leveraging disease heterogeneity in clinical trial design.

This year, we will not only celebrate the incredibly talented women in PH who are instrumental in taking the field forward but also run an early career mentoring event in which early career PH professionals will be supported by world leaders in the PH field. During our gala dinner and awards evening, we will recognise the extraordinary contributions made by experts and early-career PH professionals. Our agenda ensures there will be plentiful opportunities for cross-collaboration and learning amongst our global workstreams and task forces.

Your sponsorship is not just a financial contribution, but a direct investment in the success of the PVRI 2025 Rio Congress. Your support will make a substantial difference to the PH community globally, and we are truly grateful for your consideration.
